The project aims at identifying alumni who can be the potential donors to University for philanthropic cause based on various academic, demographic and other relevant attributes. The ensemble approach helps arrive at a classification model, which provides a handy reference for Alumni relations department for a well-targeted and thus effective, outreach.